About this Seminar

Enjoy A Complimentary Compliance IQ Assessment!

Each Workshop participant will be offered the opportunity to undertake a strictly confidential assessment offered by Knowledge Platform of your knowledge of corporate compliance issues and best practices by taking a quick online assessment.

When the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering (FATF) set out in 2001 to review and revise its Forty Recommendations on Money Laundering, it was in response to increasingly sophisticated money laundering methods and techniques. According to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, "Two trends have characterised money laundering in recent years. The first is the increasing involvement of professionals to carry out the money laundering function. Criminal organisations increasingly contract the task of money laundering to professionals because the methods required to circumvent the law and avoid detection are complex. Professionals are used not only to conceal the origin of the source of the proceeds, but to manage the subsequent investment into assets such as real estate, stock, bonds or legitimate businesses. There has been a steady increase in the fees paid to money launderers, rising from 6-8% at the beginning of the 1980's to 20% by the mid-1990s. The advice provided by these professionals has lead to the second trend namely; the globalisation of money laundering." In today's context, the threat of money laundering and terrorist financing is real and relevant for professionals.

In view of the critical role that professionals play, many countries have incorporated FATF's revised Forty Recommendations and its Nine Special Recommendations (the "FATF 40+9 Recommendations") issued in June 2003 into legislation impacting professionals in a far-reaching manner. Professionals (including lawyers, accountants, independent legal professionals, real estate agents, notaries, trust and company service providers) must now learn to navigate and implement the anti-money laundering (AML) and counter-terrorism financing (CFT) measures previously seen as relevant only to financial institutions. In addition, Singapore has existing legislation including the Corruption, Drug Trafficking and Other Serious Crimes (Confiscation of Benefits) Act and the Terrorism (Suppression of Financing) Act that directly apply to lawyers. Effective implementation of Know-Your-Client obligations, risk management and compliance processes and structures means radical changes to the mindsets and manner with which professionals think, act and even manage their clients and businesses.

Singapore has been a FATF member since 1991 and a member of the Asia/Pacific Group on Money Laundering (APG) since its inception in 1997. Singapore will soon introduce changes to the Legal Profession Act and the Law Society will amend its Legal Profession (Professional Conduct) Rules to bring into effect necessary changes for lawyers and law practices to meet international "Know-Your-Client" standards.

As a legal professional, are you or your law practice ready?

If you are an accountant, real estate agent, notary public, trust or company service provider, do you understand the impact that the FATF 40+9 Recommendations have for you and your business?

Seminar Learning Objectives

This ½ day seminar, featuring a luminary panel of speakers, aims to be that critical first step for professionals to achieve the following:

1. Gain a deeper understanding of money laundering
2. Develop a greater appreciation both of how AML measures work and the role professionals can play
3. Hear first-hand from policy makers and an industry regulator the policy drivers behind the new AML regulations for the legal profession, bearing in mind that these policy reasons form the framework for AML compliance for all professionals
4. Learn from the financial sector the valuable lessons it has gleaned over decades of grappling with money laundering and anti-money laundering legislation, including costly mistakes that can be avoided
5. Pick up practical and cost-effective strategies and techniques that may be used within their organisations
